Dino Marcellino is a well known helicopter photographer from Italy. He has long made a name for himself in the helicopter scene with his professional photos and reports. In 2012, his first book SOS - Italian Helicopter Rescue Operations from the Mediterranean Sea to Mont Blanc (English) was published. In 2015 he published his second book: Elisoccorso sulle Alpi - Helicopter Rescue in the Alps (Italian and English).

In October 2017 his new book Elicotteri al lavoro - Helicopters at work was published (Italian and English). In it he shows in 10 chapters in the form of reports from Italy and Switzerland the versatile missions of helicopters in the civilian area with expressive pictures and informative texts. The following types of missions can be found in this book: concrete transport, spraying vineyards, heliskiing, flights for winter sports, avalanche blasting with Daisybell, shuttle flights at motor sport events, air rescue in northern Italy and South Tyrol, rescue flights at night, water rescue with dogs, mast mounting with the Air Crane, cable assembly in high-voltage construction and fire fighting. The following types of helicopters can be found in the book: AS350, H145, Erickson S-64F Air-Crane, A109, AW139, SA315B Lama, Bell 407 and AB-412.

Dino Marcellino takes his readers with impressive pictures in beautiful landscapes in all seasons. You get the feeling to be there.

A great book that is worth the price and will delight any helicopter enthusiast.
